Through a Different Lens: One Woman’s Experience in Vietnam, 1967-1968

Frances Williams
October 23, 2020 - February 6, 2021

Frances Williams was a civilian logistical expert working at White Sands Missile Range in 1967, serving in the Department of Army Civilian, when the U.S. Army requested that she go to Vietnam. She was stationed at the Long Binh Army Base at the 14th Inventory Control Center, where she assisted with organizing and streamlining the Army’s supply lines. From being in Saigon during the Tet Offense, to hosting a Passover Seder for servicemen, volunteering at the 24th Evacuation Hospital, and interacting with Vietnamese people, Williams’ experiences were recorded in her diary and through her photographic slides. These original sources tell the story of one woman’s experience in Vietnam.

Observations²: A Portrait of White Sands National Monument

Artwork by Emmitt Booher
November 6, 2020 - February 6, 2021

New Mexico’s “Cowboy Chronicler” Eugene Manlove Rhodes wrote of the White Sands area, “Out on the sands magic islands came and went and rose and sank in a misty sea.” Nearly one hundred years later it is still an apt description of the shifting gypsum dunes found at White Sands National Park. Local photographer Emmitt Booher seeks to invite a more intimate portrayal of the gypsum dunefields through his photographs. Booher explored the constraints of a square photograph format while capturing the ethereal quality and subtle tones of White Sands.

Arte Cubano

Mid-America Arts Alliance/ExhibitsUSA
October 6 – January 15

Arte Cubano highlights a universally agreed-upon characteristic of the island’s art: an incredible diversity. Cuban art is rich in large part because of its diverse cultural blend of African, European, and Latin/Caribbean influences. Indigenous and colonial histories, the revolution of 1959, and Cuban art create a unique aesthetic place in the art world.

Mid-America Arts Alliance/ExhibitsUSA co-organized Arte Cubano with the Center for Cuban Studies (NYC) to synthesize two extraordinary private collections generously made available for the project. This exhibition could not have been made possible without their collecting vision and loan generosity. The Center for Cuban Studies opened in 1972 and was organized by a group of scholars, writers, artists, and other professionals, in response to the effects of US policy toward Cuba.

Geometric Aljamía: A Cultural Transliteration

Wylie Contemporary
February 5 – April 17, 2021

Artists from Afghanistan, Canada, Qatar, United Arab Emirates, and the United States bring together different styles of artwork in a variety of media that embrace and celebrate the concept of sacred geometry and the perfection of geometric form found in the circle, square, and triangle.
